01:988:407:10609:90	Women's Global Health Movements		3
Professor Erin Evans Global political and economic institutions and policies impact health globally. The course investigates how women's non-govern-mental organizations have attempted to transform existing institutions and policies of global health governance such that people everywhere can lead healthier and more dignified lives.
01:988:413:19926:90	Health Consequences In The Global Trade In Pharmaceuticals		3
Professor Erin Evans Multinational pharmaceutical companies remain the primary developers of new drug regimens. The health effects of drug research and development, however, vary markedly from one region of the world to another. This course explores the political economy of the global pharmaceutical industry, analyzing the distribution of burdens and benefits. It examines several ethical issues, such as clinical trials on populations in the Global South and the continuing sale of drugs across the Global South after they have been banned in the global North, among others.
01:988:416:19927:90	Women's Global Health: Special Topics		3
Professor Heidi Hoechst States of Healthcare: Comparative Global Perspectives on Healthcare and Political Systems Through a global comparison of the relationship between political contexts and the organization of healthcare institutions, the course highlights healthcare as an under-recognized arena of political engagement where citizenship is constructed and where the foundations of a state's political forms and ideologies are rooted, realized and/or undermined.

By checking this box I certify that I have visited the website for the Office of the Registrar, have reviewed and will follow the Policies and Procedures, including information on tuition and fees, schedule revisions and deadlines. I also understand that I am fully liable for all university tuition and/or fees associated with my registration and will make payment or arrangements for payment suitable to the university prior to attendance and will not receive confirmation of registration until such time as payment has been received. I understand that registration is not guaranteed and is contingent on space availability and/or departmental approval. I also understand that transferability of credits is solely determined by the institution(s) I have applied to or am matriculated in. In addition, I recognize that registering for courses via Rutgers Continuing Studies does not guarantee acceptance into any academic program other than the Certificate in Women's Global Health Leadership.
